This is in response to a request for an election of species dated October 23, 2001.

All the compounds of claim 3 necessarily contain a subgroup C, which are compounds of formula I. Since compounds of formula I have been patented (see the parent application, now U.S.P. 6,207,831), all the compounds of formula II and III wherein C is defined as in the patent must be patentable as well, i.e., no selection of any of the other subgroups A, B, D, D' and E can render the claims non-patentable over the art.

Notwithstanding the above, the following compound is provisionally elected for prosecution, with traverse:
